Stand up for your health

The new height adjustable table by Featherlite provides comfort and productivity by allowing users to easily alternate between sitting and standing postures. Regular switching between these two positions is a proven method to keep lower back and neck pain caused by poor blood circulation and slow but constant development of more serious illnesses like obesity, heart disease, and diabetes at bay.

Featherlite height adjustable tables come with simple buttons that will help you reach the requirement of your sitting and standing positions. Everest white table, one of the top products, features dimensions of 5 ftX2.5 ft that cause you no visual distraction while working, instead it fosters creativity. These tables give users an ability to adjust work surface height without the help of electricity, quickly, effortlessly, and quietly while promoting and encouraging frequent work styles transitions.

Research shows that alternating between standing and sitting is the best way to guarantee a healthy spine, lessen fatigue, and boost productivity. Featherlite Height Adjustable table allows workers to re-energise themselves throughout the day by changing position whenever they want for a more comfortable and healthier work space.
