Featherlite Introduces Height Adjustable Table

The new height adjustable table by Featherlite achieves new heights in the workplace, helps comfort and productivity through allowing users to easily alternate between sitting and standing postures. Regular switching between these two positions is a proven method to keep lower back and neck pain at bay. Researches show that most people who work in the office and sit for long hours can suffer from some serious illnesses.

Height adjustable tables are a new generation of worktables that offers flexibility to users who sit glued to their work for more than eight hours. Study shows that people who sit and stand during their work decrease the musculoskeletal pain after four to six weeks of working using the height adjustable table. They become more comfortable, thus work effectively and productively. Using the height adjustable table improves blood circulation, helps in maintaining the right posture, and boosts energy levels resulting in good nourishment of the muscles.

Featherlite's height adjustable tables come with simple buttons that will help you reach the requirement of your sitting and standing positions. Everest white table is one of the top products, featuring 5 feet dimension with 2.5 feet that causes you no visual distraction while working, instead it fosters creativity. These tables give workers an ability to adjust the work surface height quickly, effortlessly, and quietly without the help of electricity, while promoting and encouraging frequent work style transitions.

Featherlite Height Adjustable table allows workers to reenergize themselves throughout the day by changing positions whenever they want for a more comfortable and healthier day. This product is perfect for business start-up as well as freelancers or individuals who work at home.
