Facilitating 'Work From Home'

FEATHERLITE HAS THE PERFECT ERGONOMIC CHAIRS ONLINE FOR OPTIMISING PRODUCTIVITY

BY SMITI JAIN NARAYAN

Working from home is increasingly becoming an accepted norm worldwide, particularly in the IT sector. But working from home does not mean you lounge on your favourite sofa and dangle the laptop on your knee or the coffee table. Rather, it is even more pertinent that you invest in the right office furniture to boost productivity. Output of work is directly linked to correct posture. Good support for the lower back and neck leads to overall comfort which aids performance over a continuous period. Fortunately, the revolutionary new landmark in office furniture has arrived. Find it at the click of a button at www.store.featherlitefurniture.com. Featherlite has been a pioneer in the field of manufacturing scientifically researched and ergonomically designed office furniture. From office chairs, workstations, desks and tables, to storage solutions and lounge furniture, Featherlite offers the whole gamut of new age work furniture. With over 50 years of expertise in providing ergonomically designed office furniture, Featherlite's recently launched online store is the right vehicle to ensure you can buy the right chair for your 'work from home' requirements.

The Featherlite online range has perfectly contoured chairs to provide complete support. When you are looking for the right chair to be used at home, your decision should not be based on design alone. Rather, you need to ensure that you select the correct kind of ergonomic chair to achieve and maintain the right posture while working. This is paramount for avoiding currently widespread conditions like carpal tunnel syndrome, RSI or lower back pain. Keep in mind that the properly designed ergonomic chair should provide optimum comfort, which in turn can dramatically enhance productivity and efficiency. The scientifically designed contours of the chair help promote overall well-being as well as help you prevent spine injury complications. The right working posture is mandatory for long periods of sedentary work in front of a system. Thoughtful features such as adjustable seat height, adjustment armrest, contoured support for the lower back and support pads make Featherlite chairs the preferred choice for maximum physical comfort.

The benefits of an ergonomic chair is crucial as it is a low-impact support and effective protection for the back. Further it helps avoid unnecessary straining and stretching to reach the keyboard, thereby reducing serious health risks wrought by poor postures. The improved physical comfort extends to reduced eye strain as it helps you sit at the correct distance from your computer. Eliminating discomfort and distraction caused by bad posture and pain, fosters better concentration and thereby optimises output and productivity.

For the complete range of ergonomically designed office chairs and work desks to enable your 'work from home' needs, look no further. Visit www.store.featherlite.com for the new age work model.
